University Space Analysis Progress

The Space Committee working with Master Planning Team has spent the last year working with the College's drafting and presented their priorities leading into this next year's cycle detailing the space needs of each college.

The next cycle will conduct a detailed space analysis of all needs combined from all colleges considering use and management, current assets and utilization needs and financial analysis.

The instructional space needs are driven by core course.

The classroom needs will be assessed differently by changing up the way they are managed looking for efficiency. This next semester will focus on this.

Offices and meeting space analysis will be using the new space policy/guidelines that have recently been revamped.

The SPARC Innovative Research and Creative Discovery Work Group will review research space evaluating the endeavors to enhance critical infrastructure to support research, creativity, innovation, and entrepreneurship making recommendations to better utilize and support research space.
